Main text:

An event of special scientific significance took place on June 9, 2018, in the Aula of the Romanian Academy, where papers of sexology were presented, and also the first “Treaty of Clinical Sexology” in English was launched, namely the “Treaty of clinical sexology”.

Academician Leon Dănăilă, Academician Bogdan Marinescu, Academician Mircea Beuran, Prof. Gl. Constantin Dulcan, Ph.D, Prof. Tudorel Butoi, Ph.D, and Assistant Professor Nițescu Vasile, Ph.D delivered speeches before the presentation of the papers.

Academician Leon Dănăilă (fig.2.a,b): “Sexology must explain the many specific problems that arise in society, the central nervous system controlling both the normality and the abnormality of the facts integrated into this particular area of science. I have a deep conviction that the Romanian Society of Clinical Sexology and Human Procreation, namely Associate Professor Nițescu Vasile, Ph.D, through the numerous books of sexology published, among which the first book written in 1985 (“Adolescence”), all of them with an impressive scientific content, and through university and postgraduate courses, which concern the subject he called “Clinical Sexology”, can form well-trained doctors in this field who can replace the so-called “teachers” who hold courses, but who have no sexology papers. In concrete terms, I think that the notions of sexology should not be presented to learners (pupils, students) by non-specialists. The scientific notions of sexology taught must be clear and explicit.

If presented in a scientific and objective manner, the depth of these notions makes you think and judge differently, removing mediocrity and obscurantism.”

Academician Prof. Bogdan Marinescu, (fig.3): “In Romania, in the private and public education, our colleague Nițescu Vasile has introduced the subject “Clinical Sexology” several years ago, thus removing distorted and confused notions about this area of science”.

Being one of the members of the RSCSHP, I am pleased with the results of the scientific research department for adults and youth, which are under the leadership of Mr. Nițescu Vasile, solving fundamental problems of sexology, integrating from this point of view the Romanian medicine into the international one. I congratulate him on the Journal of Clinical Sexology, the first one in Romania”.

Academician Prof. Mircea Beuran, Ph.D (fig.4): “This is the first scientific session of communication at the Romanian Academy, where papers of clinical sexology, of particular interest, are presented also in Romania. I can mention, for example, the so-called “Hypereroticism area”, as Associate Professor Nițescu Vasile, Ph.D called it, an area that has long been known to offer “maximum pleasure,” but no one has explained so far the anatomy and physiology of the area that causes this erogenous effect. It should be stressed that this aspect of science was also introduced in Romania in the State and Private Medical Education by Associate Professor Nițescu Vasile, Ph.D, and the first academic books are edited by the Romanian Academy, by the same author. The editing of the “Treaty of Clinical Sexology” by Associate Professor Nițescu Vasile, Ph.D, shows again the value of Romanian Medicine in the world”.

Associate Prof. Col. Tudorel Butoi (fig.5): “The notions of Normal and Pathological Clinical Sexology, as Associate Professor Nițescu Vasile, Ph.D called them, are necessary for the deepening of data from multiple medical specialties, but also from forensic or justice, judging the crimes, the acts of violence committed in the sexual intercourse”.

Associate Professor Nițescu Vasile, Ph.D: “The scientific communication session is organized by the Romanian Society of Clinical Sexology and Human Procreation. I confess that I am impressed by the significant number of participants, who are filling in today the registration form as members of the RSCSHP. If you have the time, please allow me to give you some information about the Society:

- The Society wants to develop research into this area of science in the two research departments, adult and youth, that have been running for a long time. I emphasize that the members of these departments have actively participated in eight of the papers of this scientific session;

- The promotion in the media of the right notions, of the form of expression and of the content of the notions of sexology is intended;

- The promotion of collaboration and the development of interdisciplinary relationships in the area of medicine, as well as in areas such as justice, forensics, religion is intended;

- The organization of national and international scientific sessions;

- The provision of specialized advice to institutions interested, especially the Ministry of Health, the Ministry of Education, the Romanian Academy, and to all interested people;

- The continuation of the university and postgraduate courses of “Normal and Pathological Clinical Sexology”, respectively the training of competent people in promoting the correct notions of sexology;

Assoc. Prof. Dr. Nițescu Vasile,
Prof. Butoi Tudorel

- The publication of clinical sexology papers in the “Journal of Clinical Sexology”, following their endorsement by the Scientific Council of the Society;

- The development of relationships with specialized societies outside the country, of which some are already affiliated with our Society;

Thank you for your presence and I wish you a warm “Welcome!” at the Scientific Session of the Romanian Society of Clinical Sexology and Human Procreation.

The audience appreciated the scientific content of the papers presented.

At the end of the first part of the Scientific Session, the first Treaty of Clinical Sexology was launched (fig.6a, b), in English, the Romanian version being already launched in 2015.
